Criticism

MANY loyal readers who have written in praise of the July 13 exposure of the Nazi-American cartel plot to control American politics and industry as a preparation for the present war, will find the following statement of Dorothy Thompson's an answer to a frequent question: "The war is developing two types of critics, and it is important that the public learn to distinguish between them. The one type directs all criticism, however sharp, to the business of making the nation stronger through the elimination of profiteering, the denunciation of inefficiency, and the demand for increased social vision. The other type of criticism is a mask for denouncing the war itself, for dividing the nation; for creating fear of Britain, fear of Russia, fear of the President. The one type serves the nation. The other serves our enemies."

Listed by Miss Thompson in the second category, one who "serves our enemies," and therefore open to a charge of treason, is Herbert Hoover.

Unfortunately, the columnist does not mention the most important anti-Fascist element in America, the 52,000,000 Americans who come under the heading "labor." Among those aiding the enemy by attacking labor, according to the NY membership of the Newspaper Guild, is Westbrook Pegler.

Although IN FACT limits its pages to facts rather than editorial criticism, the facts it presents are those exposing American Fascism, and native Fascism's editorial writers in the press, columnists, radio men, Congressmen, newspaper owners and similar Fifth and Sixth Columnists. Editorially, IN FACT believes that next to carrying a gun on the second, third and fourth front, the best thing men and women of America can do is fight the same enemy at home. The enemy includes some of the biggest names, corporations, politicians, columnists, newspaper owners and organizations in the nation. And this war against native Fascism will continue after the next armistice and peace.

Red Warning Lights

HARVEY O'CONNOR, Federated Press correspondent, reports from Washington (example of the first kind of criticism):

Hitler is putting more steel into the war than the US, although our steel production is more than twice Nazi Europe's.

Hitler, with access to only 200,000 tons of copper a year, is continuing to overrun Europe, while the US with 2,200,000 tons at its disposal, is closing essential war factories for lack of the precious metal.

Lost, strayed, or stolen—nearly 13,000-

India Will Fight World's Common Enemy: Fascism by R Lal Singh p.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY took another step in American Fascism Aug 14 with its announcement that it had appointed former Representative Samuel B Pettengill chairman of its national finance committee.

Besides writing a syndicated reactionary labor-baiting, anti-liberal column, Pettengill is notorious for heading the Committee for Constitutional Government.

The Committee for Constitutional Government is one of the many American Fascist outfits subsidized by the biggest manufacturers, the men who are in the Nazi cartels, the men who financed the Liberty League, the anti-Semitic Sentinels of the Republic, the Coughlinites, and other Fascist forces.

The Pettengill outfit was originated by Frank E Gannett, the Rochester publisher. The first executive secretary of the outfit was Dr Edw A Rumely. Dr Rumely was sentenced to serve a year in the Federal Penitentiary as a German agent in the last war. Rumely, with German money, bought the NY Mail, used it to spread German propaganda.

Treasurer of the Pettengill outfit is Sumner Gerard. In the expose of the Committee for Constitutional Government (under its original name, Committee to Uphold the Constitution) Senator (now Judge) Schwellenbach denounced Rumely as a convict and Sumner Gerard as associating with Rumely. Gerard, who today sends out the begging letters for this outfit (although the big money behind it is subscribed by millionaires) declared on the witness stand that he was proud to associate with Rumely. Ever since the lobby investigation (by Senator, now Justice, Black) exposed the doings of Gannett, Rumely and Gerard, the name of Rumely has disappeared from the letterheads of the outfit.

Labor-Fighting Committee Board Mostly Fascist

The following persons appear on letterheads as officers and trustees of the Pettengill committee throughout 1940, 1941 and 1942:

1. Samuel B Pettengill, chairman and president, lawyer and former member of the House of Representatives, a renegade Democrat.

2. Louis J Taber, vice-chairman and advisory counsel, Master of the National Grange, Columbus, Ohio. This statement is a lie. The Pettengill committee in a letter which IN FACT has, dated July 30 1942 (also headed: "Reading time—13/4 minutes") is still using Mr Taber's name and position, as Master of the most powerful farmers' organization, 1,000,000 strong, whereas in fact Taber retired Nov 17 1941, "because of poor health." (Albert S Goss was elected Master.)

Taber retired in the midst of a considerable storm, having been attacked by the farm press for alleged failure to cooperate with President Roosevelt in a big agricultural expansion program. He was also accused of being a director of America First. Nothing was said about his America First affiliation until after Lindbergh had made his Des Moines speech repeating Hitler's three most famous lies: the lie of superiority of the Aryan race; the lie of Nazi air invincibility; the lie of "Jewish control" of the American press.

3. The Rev Norman Vincent Peale, D D, minister, Marble Collegiate Church, Fifth ave, NYC, secretary. Other American Fascists having title "Rev" are:

Winrod, GLK Smith, Coughlin, Moltzahn.

4. Sumner Gerard, treasurer.

5. Edward H Moore, businessman, Tulsa, Okla.

6. S S McClure, founder, McClure's Magazine. McClure openly boasted he was for Mussolini. That was before the US went to war with Mussolini.

7. William MacFerran Jr, banker, Topeka, Kansas.

8. Frank E Gannett, publisher of newspaper chain, 16 papers, circulation 470,000. Gannett is worth some $12,500,000 and once had a reputation as a sincere man, a humanitarian, and all that. However, in fighting his own employees and in fighting labor unions, Gannett has distinguished himself as one of the many native Fascist Press Lords. He used stoolpigeons, strikebreakers and finks in a printers' strike. He used racketeers, but Westbrook Pegler, who sells to many Gannett papers, is not likely to expose that sort of racketeering.

Regarding the Pettengill Constitution Committee as founded by Gannett,

Senator (now Judge) Minton said: "Don't be misled by Mr Gannett as he directs his propaganda machine... He has no more idea of saving you and your Constitution than the Liberty League did. If you are gullible you might be persuaded by the flood of misleading propaganda being sent out by Gannett's committee... Mr Gannett... was deliberately falsifying the record.... Let me nail another falsehood of Mr Gannett's..." (For the other Gannett falsehoods see Congressional Record, March 28, 1938). Gannett is also notorious for the fact that when Tugwell tried to put through a pure food and drug law protecting the lives and pocketbooks of the American people, Gannett offered his newspaper chain to the drug and advertising people for the purpose of harming the general welfare of America.

9. Amos Pinchot, attorney and publicist, NY.

Committee Trustee Amos Pinchot Who Tried Suicide

The newspapers of Aug 7 reported that the noted renegade radical, parlor liberal, wealthy, anti-labor propagandist Amos Pinchot had slashed the veins of his arms and locked himself in a bathroom of a friend's house in Westport, Conn.

In Vol 1, pages 520, 528, 531 of the Dies Committee report you will find Amos Pinchot redbaited, smeared, and libeled by Dies and by the prize Fascist Walter S Steele, manager National Republic magazine, collaborator of Mrs Dilling, who will be tried for sedition. What was Pinchot's crime as a radical? He had believed in civil liberties and joined the CL Union. He had believed in the rights of labor and been an attorney for the union's committee to fight labor injunctions (p. 531). Gifford Pinchot, former governor of Penna, who is still a liberal, is also smeared by Dies.

At what date Amos became a labor-baiter is not known. But he has been listed as trustee of the Pettengill outfit for several years. He has written some of its most vicious and frequently untruthful propaganda. He opposed not only the New Deal but every measure for the betterment of the majority. He joined America First in order to fight Roosevelt. No reason was given in the newspapers for the attempted suicide.

Fascism, said Ernest Hemingway in Spain, means death. "Fascism," writes Walton Van Clute in the American Journal of Orthopsychiatry (Apr 2) "thwarts the life instinct." "People have wondered how Fascism ever gets any willing supporters... To any scientist dealing with realities rather than superstitions or illusions, the people under Fascist regimes are not fundamentally different from Americans... Fascism stands for the repression of life impulses... Fascism also stands for destruction: the burning of books, ravaging of property belonging to Jews; the complete devastation of Ethiopian villages and Spanish towns; the wiping out of trade unions and other progressive organizations of the people. In general, Fascism stands for the complete psychological repression of the true nature of the economic relations between the main classes, the employers and the workers, in present-day competitive society. It actually reduces the living standard and liberties of the working class by increasing the profits of the capitalists. By giving the worker the impression that he is working for the Corporate or Authoritarian State, instead of for the capitalist, it seems to conceal the reality of the capitalist gain at the expense of the worker....

"When we curtail or act to prevent the extension of democracy, we repress life-impulses. That is, we repress impulses which arise from our needs of self-preservation and self-betterment. . . . Many psychologists may well look upon the current unrest, the dejection, the mood of apprehension found among certain types of Americans today, as symptoms of this conflict."

In a CBS hookup from London, Aug 13 (WABC 10:30 pm) Andre Philip, who escaped from the French underground, explained that after the fall of France there was unrest, dejection, collapse, sullen acceptance of Fascism. However, the impulse for France to fight for liberty came from labor, and especially from radical labor. Labor is the most anti-fascist of all organizations.

Committee Subsidizer Found Guilty of Anti-Labor Acts

The propaganda of the Committee for Constitutional Gov't is similar to the anti-labor propaganda of the Nat'l Ass'n of Manufacturers (NAM), and more subtle than the crude falsities of the Constitutional Education League, whose stuff is now listed among the seditious matter used by the 28 who will be tried for undermining the morale of our Army.

The appeals for money are signed by Gerard, Rev Dr Peale and Chas R Hook, president, American Rolling Mills. Hook was a member of the President's labor mission to Britain, and spokesman for industry at a labor-industry conference in Washington, Jan 1942. He is a former president of the NAM. One day after his appearance in the capital, the Labor Board handed down a decision ordering Hook to drop his company union, to stop hindering unionization by the Steel Workers (CIO), and to quit violating the Labor Act. Hook's firm was found guilty of "vilifying, ridiculing and denouncing unionism, the CIO, its leaders and organizers; spying on union meetings; pilfering union records; intimidating workers; threatening and frightening workers because of union activities; compelling and enticing workers to resign or refrain from joining unions; encouraging company unions."

Hook on May 14 1941 sent $1,000 to the Pettengill outfit, saying he favored

Free Speech

I SAY discuss all and expose all— I am for every topic openly; I say there can be no salvation for These States without innovators—without free tongues, and ears willing to hear the tongues;

And I announce as a glory of These States, that they respectfully listen to propositions, reforms, fresh views and doctrines, from successions of men and women,

Each age with its own growth.

-Walt Whitman

000 tons of steel which can't be accounted for in Washington. It was produced but statistics don't tell where it went.

The Senate Patents Committee furnished some of the capital's information on sabotage of war production when it continued hearings on Standard Oil's sinister agreements with IG Farbenin-dustrie, the Nazi chemical trust. Uncovered now is an agreement to throttle US development of methanol, a wood alcohol for motor fuel. Devious warfare between Standard Oil and DuPont for Nazi favors was revealed by testimony.

The Senate Defense Investigating Committee, headed by able Sen Truman, charged the Steel Trust with throttling small producers able to make a big contribution and with failing to open a single new iron mine or blast furnace on the Pacific Coast, although the Coast is rich in untapped ores. He urged WPB Boss Donald Nelson to reorganize his iron and steel division, freeing it of Steel Trust dollar a year men.

And Some Green Lights

ONE-HALF the construction industry's 2,000,000 workers are now employed on war building.

Nobody's talking about workers wearing silk shirts this time. They're lucky to have cotton in this war. Sec of Labor Perkins says our income is up 7% in one year, living costs are up 8% and Americans are socking away what they can in War Savings Bonds. Result: we're buying less.

There'll be 14,000 more bombers and 33,000 more tanks if War Manpower Commission is successful in attack on problem of better nutrition for workers. A better lunchbox would help lots.

Privates are wearing better uniforms in this war than colonels did in the last. Army shirts are similar to $3-5 shirts sold in Fifth Ave shops. Shorts are of the kind you buy for six bits.

Note for consumers: Army pays about $14 for winter uniform that would set civilian back for $45; $6-7 for all-wool blanket that can be bought—if at all—for about $12.

Labor rang the bell in Washington press with publication of Producing for Victory, a pamphlet showing how to increase production 25% without more manpower or equipment. Surprised labor-baiters sucked in their breath. The pamphlet is available from CIO, 1108 Connecticut Ave, N W, Washington, DC, at 15 cents.

All Washington saw full-page Second Front Now ad in local papers, inserted by American Council on Soviet Relations. Ad urged letters to President Roosevelt.

Critics Take Orders

HEARST Mirror editor, Jack Lait, once a liberal and believer in the free press, gives orders to his critics, just as Hearst gives orders (a la Mussolini) to his editors on how to handle the news. After Lee Mortimer, movie critic, wrote his review of "King's Row," which had the caption "King's Row Full of Blood, Blunder," Lait sent following memo:

To: Mr Stiles From: Mr Lait

I think it good policy when we have an unfavorable review to make the read-out head-line innocuous

There is no intention whatsoever to shade or curb the freedom of our critics in expressing their honest opinions. But a headline is a definite announcement, almost an advertisement, and, I think, transcends the limits of critical liberty.

This need in no way interfere with favorable headlines, but when we find it an editorial duty to censure a dramatic or film production, let us not bang it at the reader with an added and even more pronounced announcement in the headlines.

This does not mean that the headline shall not fully represent the copy below, but when the criticism is distinctly unfavorable, the headline may announce that such and such a production has opened, or that this is a review of such and such a production, etc, etc. Nor does it mean if the review is nine-tenths bad that the headline should pick out the one-tenth that is good and emphasize it.

I refer again to the word used above—"innocuous"—as a guide to such headlines.

In the history of the Hearst journalistic fortune there is a chapter in which the multi-millionaire drama critic, Arthur Brisbane, one of Hearst's closest associates, made a deal with theatres to give all shows excellent reviews in return for payment for a page adv which read like reading matter.

Lewis and Coughlin

EDITOR Archie Wright of Farmers Defender sends following news item: John L Lewis has just appointed Edward E Kennedy to head a newly created "research department" in his United Dairy Farmers' Division of District 50. Kennedy was once secretary-treasurer of the National Farmers Union, but was removed from office when he conspired to endorse the Coughlin-Lemke Union Party without the consent of the membership. With Coughlin's help, Kennedy then tried to split the National Farmers' Union by setting up a National Farmers Guild, which flopped in short order. Kennedy later lobbied in Washington with Louis B Ward, editor of Coughlin's Social Justice.

its program for "upholding" the constitution and "our competitive system of free enterprise." He added: "Mr Pettengill and Senator Edward R Burke have made outstanding contributions in the interest of the preservation of the American way of life." Senator Burke was exposed by In Fact (Aug 26, 1940) as an endorser of Hitler, tool for the NAM, enemy of the Wagner Act, pail-up member of the Khaki Shirts, one of the first Fascist uniformed groups in America whose commander, Art Smith, went to jail for perjury, and whose ass't commander, F Moffer, pleaded guilty of murdering an anti-Fascist Italian. (March 13, 1942 Hook reported Am Rolling Mills profit of $11,228,475, largest in history—from war orders.)

INDIA WILL FIGHT WORLD'S COMMON ENEMY: FASCISM

by R Lal Singh

EDITOR OF INDIA NEWS, LOS ANGELES
Only Member in America of the Indian National Congress

UR LEADERS more than a decade ago trumpeted a warning to the West of the rise of the Fascist demon. While Baldwin and Chamberlain were still following the will-o'-the-wisp of appeasement, the leaders of the Indian people saw clearly the dangers of strengthening Naziism. But in spite of our warnings, in spite of our pleadings, the appeasers prevailed. The Cliveden Set pro-Fascists (who unfortunately have their counterparts in America) had their way, the demon of barbarity, Hitler Fascism, has grown powerful, has struck with all its might at the world of democracy, has encouraged the Francos in Spain, the Quislings in Norway; has given courage to the military clique in Japan who have spent five years murdering our beloved Chinese neighbors and have now had the temerity to seize the islands of the South Seas, and to strike treacherously at Pearl Harbor, Midway and the Aleutian Islands, aiming at your country, aiming to enslave even the United States.

Wherever free men exist, Fascism is today baring its ugly fangs, seeking to poison and kill that freedom. From one end of the earth to the other, literally from pole to pole, we see the helpless struck down and poverty, misery, starvation, murder, follow in the wake of the evil power. The minor—so-called "minor"—incidents of Manchuria, Ethiopia and Spain have now become major incidents, have become conflagrations in which the world's treasure is consumed, and with that treasure a still more valuable thing—the lives of millions upon millions of the innocent, the just and the good.

We cannot follow a course of apathy toward India and still honestly fight for freedom. Mutual respect, mutual understanding, mutual help is now a necessity, a prime necessity, in fact, a prerequisite for a United Nations victory.

August 7 Gandhi stated in Bombay: "Waiting is harmful . . . Freedom now would assure victory for the Allied Nations." That other great leader of the Indian National Congress, Nehru, has stated: "India will make a difference both to the length and the intensity of the war." And Nehru is the man who stated as far back as April 11, the day of the breakup of the Cripps Mission. that he was working for an army of one hundred million Indians who could fight the Axis, as he phrased it, even when regular armies failed. Nehru is profoundly anti-Axis. It was at Nehru's insistence that the clauses in the proposed Congress resolution on non-violent non-cooperation were modified so that it has been made abundantly clear to the whole world that India, while fighting for its independence, is decidedly on the side of victory for the United Nations. All this newspaper talk about "welcoming the Japanese" is so much bunk. Nehru has advocated a scorched earth policy to make it impossible for the Japanese to use anything in India, if they attempted an invasion. And while Gandhi, whose nationalism and pacifism has often led him astray, at one time urged complete withdrawal of the British from India, even Gandhi modified this point of view at New Delhi in the following words: "I would recognize Britain's own military necessity. They may need to remain in India to prevent Japanese occupation. That prevention is the common cause between them and us. It may be necessary for the sake of China also. Therefore I would tolerate their presence in India not in any sense as rulers but as allies of a free India."

India's Struggle Broadens Beyond Nationalism

The strictly nationalist chapter in India's struggle for freedom is closed. The struggle for independence has broadened. It has spread far beyond the limited frontiers of narrow nationalism. It has come to epitomize the struggle of whole masses of humanity against a common foe, Fascism; and as a great part of the vast section of humanity now aligned against that foe, India is doing her part to crush the ugly monster of repression and tyranny. The Indian people will not and cannot allow him to pass across our ancient land. No; they will bend every sinew, they will strain every nerve, to preserve those ideals of the freeman to which we all aspire.

How, indeed, in the present world crisis, would it be possible for India to depart from the ranks of progressive forces? The Indian people, and I presume to speak on their behalf, cannot, in respect to our old and ancient neighbor, China, fail to take our place in the ranks of those who may die in order that the will of the free shall live. We Indians, who perhaps know more than you of the sacrifices already paid by those valiant Chinese comrades of ours, can never let them down. Their sufferings during the past five years may well go down in history as one of the two or three greatest burdens any modern country has been obliged to face and solve.

Nor is this all. There is a long-standing antagonism between the Japanese government and the Indian people, rooted in knowledge by us of the Japanese Imperial Policy contained in the Tanaka Memorial. The people of India understand that the Japanese militarists have a program for world-domination not unlike that of Hitler. But the Nazi "New Order" bears no gift from heaven for the Indian people.

No Passive Resistance to Axis

Let it be clearly understood: The Indian masses do not want and will not submit to, a policy of passive resistance to the Axis. They and their young leaders recognize in that path the road to destruction. Notwithstanding present newspaper talk about civil disobedience directed against the British, the people of India are definitely committed to larger issues, to the issues, in fact, which confront the entire United Nations and which can be summarized as freedom for all peoples. My people have resolved that India must and shall be defended by force of arms against any aggressor, Japanese or Nazi. And they understand full well that such defense is for the future of all mankind. Such groups as the Indian Youth Movement, and the Trade Union Congress of India, have passed resolutions calling for an unequivocal repudiation of those forces which tend to hinder the attainment of freedom and solidarity.

The Indian people have not lost sight of what has happened in Europe. Nazi imperialism has struck down the independence of country after country in Europe, and the effect has not been lost on us. Its counterpart in the Far East has turned Greater Asia into a battlefield. Wherever the beast has gone, it has enslaved whole peoples, annexed their territories, and destroyed their cultural heritages. And it has transformed their countries into roadways for its conquering armies for further aggressions.

Today, however, it stands balked in its conquering career by the indomitable resistance of the Soviet people whose independence and civilization it has dared to attack. Should the Nazi marauders by any remote chance penetrate through Arabia or past the Caspian to the borders of India, I can assure you our four hundred million people will resolutely defend their land and their freedom.

In Asia, in Africa and in Europe, the United Nations are the proclaimed champions of National Independence. Remember that India is a signatory of the United Nations Pact. Remember, too, that in signing the Anglo-Soviet Pact, a twenty-year alliance has been set up with a power and a people who regard the struggle for national independence as an integral part of our collective policy. There is for us inspiration and encouragement and a special significance in the valiant stand of the Red Army of the USSR-more so as we view the sad spectacle of Europe prostrate and despoiled. The Mongol, Georgian, Tartar, Uzbek and other Soviet peoples will never say die. Their powerful resistance, which was never anticipated by the enemy, has given America, Britain and India vitally needed time in which to gear their industries to full war effort. In sober fact, the armies of the Soviets alone saved Britain from an avalanche of marauders at a time when seconds seemed to tick off precious years.

Reopening of Negotiations Urged

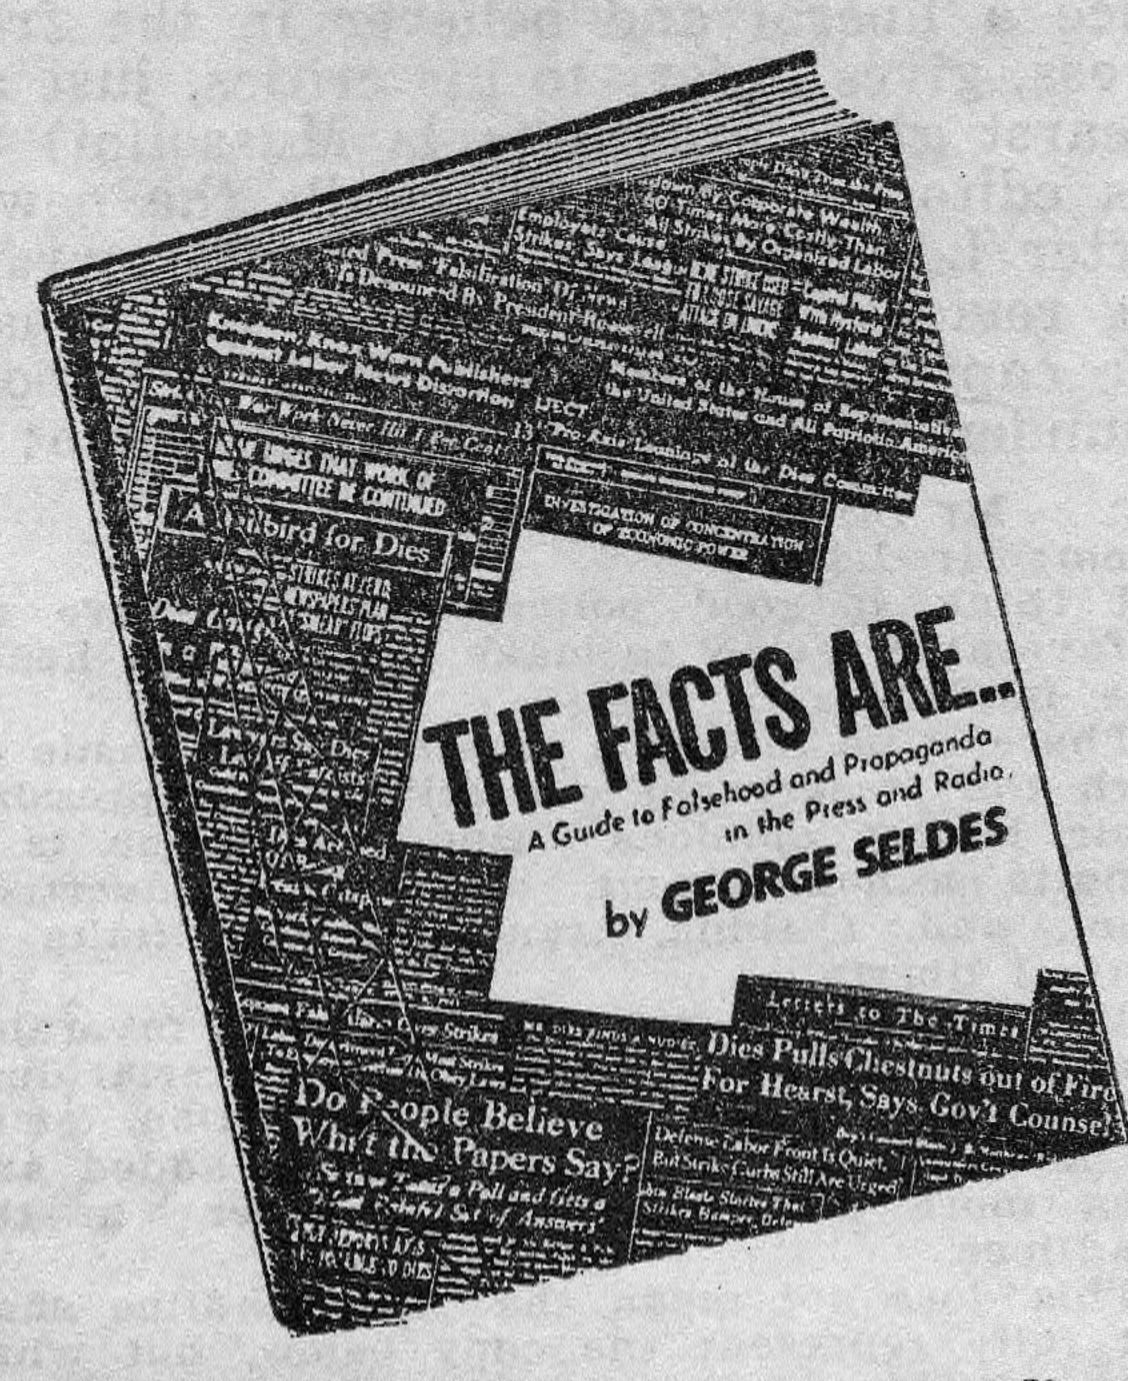

Not alone we of India, but the entire world is deeply moved by the tremendous sacrifice already paid by the Soviet armies. But admiration is not enough. Gratitude in the shape of a Second Front is long overdue. In fact, forgetting gratitude, and considering the matter purely as one of self-preservation, the Second Front in Europe must quickly be opened, must be launched without an hour's delay. Petty prejudices and intolerances must be shed in order that an unimpeded all-out drive against our enemies may be made at once, a drive in which every force is utilized in battle, and in which the full national energies of all freedom-loving peoples may find outlet. For liberty and freedom are indeed ideals worthy of the ultimate sacrifice.

It is true that the premature, incomplete, and propaganda-clouded declarations by Gandhi on passive-resistance were used by the press services to confuse well-intentioned people here and elsewhere. Nehru, the militant leader of the Congress, spoke for India when he said: "I do feel definitely that it would be a tragedy for the world if Germany and Japan won this war and dominated the world-I do not want this to happen-I cannot tolerate the idea that I should sit idle or that people should sit idle in their houses while the battle for freedom is being fought. The popular conception of resistance is no surrender, that is the conception we want in India."

The important thing now is: The British ruling group (Churchill government) is responsible for the crisis; they by their intransigeance prevented the moderates led by Nehru from solving the problem; thus the British have forced Gandhi upon the people, have brought about the rise of the dangerous civil disobedience program; have turned United Nations guns against the Indian people (instead of against the Japanese) and thus have in reality turned them on the American people and all others who are a part of the United Nations. Our American friends can help by urging the trade unions of America to communicate directly with British trade union groups, urging freedom for India, urging an immediate re-opening of negotiations between the Churchill Government and the Indian National Congress.
